IMAGINE EMOTIONAL WIZARDS AT GAME SHOWS

Winning prizes for understanding subject-matter key to healthy mind development.

Emotional Intelligence Awareness Month provides an opportunity for highlighting the value of better understanding our emotions and the importance of developing healthier minds. Game shows, such as the image above illustrates, do not exist for challenging potential contestants. Yet, few subjects matter more to our credibility than grasping the emotional components of mind development. This kind of knowledge is also the most important key for achieving a more emotionally stable world.

Nature's effect on our emotions influences thoughts and behaviors more easily than we realize, particularly when we are not aware of exactly what to watch out for and avoid, and what to nurture instead. Working through the psychological idiosyncrasies of the mind greatly enhances our well-being, yet requires comprehensive education, similar to major subjects taught today in schools.

Emotional Intelligence Awareness Month is an International campaign effort initiated each year by the Emotional Intelligence Institute (EII), a non-profit organization dedicated to helping people learn about the many wonders of the mind, particularly for improving their emotional intelligence. Imagine becoming an Emotional Wizard Challenger! Learn important skills at www.e-ii.org where you will find a number of FREE lessons and campaign materials for both adults and youth.

*Searching for the number of hidden hearts in the picture above is similar to searching for ways our emotions influence how we think, communicate, and act. Sometimes we must look more closely to see clearly.
