

NO MATTER WHAT THE HOLIDAY IS OR TIME OF YEAR

Some kids don't like to show their faces.

WIZARD WISDOM – Some kids live with scars, disfigurements, or other challenges that make them feel different. Discernment helps kids notice these situations and choose kindness instead of teasing or staring. Kids can learn to pause, think about how someone might feel, and choose gentler ways of behaving – like offering a friendly smile or a few encouraging words. Explain that hurtful behavior can leave emotional scars that last a long time. Calling kids names or ridiculing them in front of others can cause serious harm. Encourage kids to use discernment to recognize when someone needs kindness and to choose supportive ways to treat classmates who face these challenges.
